Creating a New Theme

Requires

THEME PRESS

Creating a New Theme

Prompt
Copying an existing theme to create a starting point for a new theme.

Outcome
Developing a new theme for your site requires making a copy of an existing theme and then modifying the copied theme to your specifications.

Steps
Identify an existing theme that would be a good candidate to use as a starting point for your new theme

Any existing theme in your site may be copied for this purpose. This includes any custom themes that may have already been created for your site or either of the two built-in themes that come pre-installed with Brikit Theme Press (Vanilla and Splash).

If you already have an idea of what you would like your new theme to look like, we recommend copying an existing theme that most closely resembles what you have in mind.

Make a copy of that theme

Turn on the Theme Designer to find that theme and copy it:

Theme Designer Themes section Manage Themes Click magnifying glass icon Q to open panel Click the theme you want to copy in the Available Themes section Click Copy Theme button

Name your new theme and then modify and apply it as you wish

Once you give your new theme a name, click OK. You'll be able to make changes to it and start applying it to specific spaces or your entire site.

Note

Tip

Warning

Info
Related

- Applying a Theme to a Space
- Theme Design
- Enabling and Disabling the Theme Designer